

A lost attenuation channel — Japanese Gardens

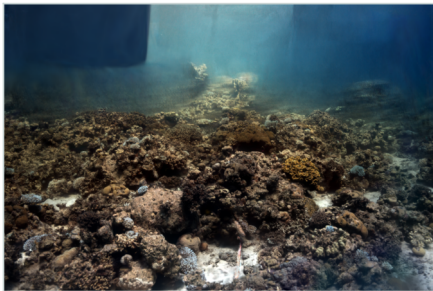

baseline — attenuation

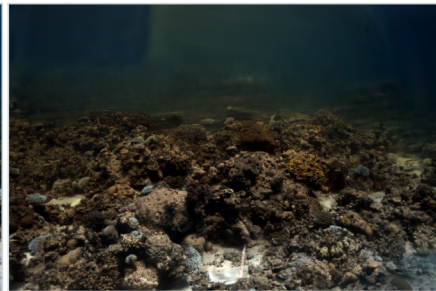

collapsed — attenuation

baseline — restored $\hat{J}$

collapsed — restored $\hat{J}$

The simplification run lost its blue channel; the baseline did not. Their composed images score within 0.8 of a baseline standard deviation of each other. No cell has both a collapsed and an intact repeat at the one seed whose point cloud is retained, so these differ in configuration as well as in outcome.